Keep Essential Car Documents Organized

"License and registration please." Unfortunately, most of us have heard those words at least once after being pulled over for a traffic violation. Then usually ensues fumbling through a messy glove compartment to find the necessary items. Do yourself a favor and get a sturdy, document case to hold all your documents. There are many available to purchase online. Once you do, what exactly should you store in your car?

Vehicle Registration—this document proves that you are the legal owner of your car and that it has been properly registered with the state of Virginia. You are required by law to have this document with you when driving. If you cannot produce your registration upon request of a law enforcement officer you may be cited and/or fined.

Proof of Insurance—another document you are legally required to have in your vehicle while driving is proof that your car is insured. It should have a valid expiration date on it. If you do not have this you are also liable for fines or citations. Complying with this regulation helps everyone as it is what enables police to pull cars off the road that are not insured and the cause of much heartache to victims of accidents with uninsured drivers. Many insurance companies now offer apps for your phone where a copy of your insurance card is also available. If you're one of those people who never remember to put the new card in the car this might be worth looking into.

Driver's License—while most people keep this on their person in a wallet and not in the car, it is an essential document that you must always have with you when driving. It is proof that you are licensed to drive a car. Failure to produce a valid, up-to-date license will require you to show up with it at a police station or other designated location within a certain period at the very least and can be grounds for fines or citations at the worst.

What Not to Keep in Your Car

One document that many people do keep in their cars that they should not is the title to the car. If your car was stolen, it makes it much easier for a thief to illegally sell your car after stealing it. So, keep this document in a safe place at home.

We Are Proud to Partner with the Portsmouth Humane Society

Thank you Portsmouth Humane Society for this wonderful review!

Kalfus & Nachman has been a great friend to Portsmouth Humane Society! The firm shares a adoptable pet in its newsletters each month and covers the adoption fee, sponsors our fundraising events, and makes donations of much needed supplies. Recently, they dropped off a ton of supplies and even covered lunch for our staff! We are grateful for a community partner that is so invested in our mission and cares for our team members too. Thank you Kalfus & Nachman!!

What Our Clients Are Saying About Us

Overall, this law firm was great. My attorney Christopher Jacobs and his paralegal, Emily Ruloph were awesome. They always kept me informed and were knowledgeable whenever I called about my case. The only downside about being in a crash besides the crash itself was how poorly Geico treated me. They delayed and delayed using Covid as a further delay. Chris, my attorney did not accept such delays. He filed suit and cornered them into an appropriate settlement. I would recommend my friends and family to Christopher Jacobs if a great attorney is needed. He and his staff are very professional.
